There are lots of fun ways to incorporate candy into the party decor. First up, gather all your favorite types of candy. Take different sized vases and fill them with your favorite candy and scatter them throughout the party. You can also take those styrofoam cones and spray paint them in whatever color you would like, then stick lollipops into them creating a unique centerpiece. You can even take styrofoam balls and stick lollipops in them and hang them from the ceiling. Before you start planning for your party, definitely watch Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory to find a bit of inspiration for your party decor. From there, make a list of what you would like to see and what you think you can create yourself. You definitely need a candy bar. Use different sized vases and containers to create this look. Use your favorite candy bars, suckers, hard candy, sweet and sour candy and whatever else you may enjoy. You can also feature other sweet items like cookies, pies, cakes and top it off with a bit of milk. That could even be your party favor to send home with your guests. Candy Buffet Also, pair colorful drinks with the candy as well. You can also have food that looks like candy or sort of has the sweet and savory taste going for it. Talk with your local caterer , they will have a variety of ideas for your party. This party is really simple to set up. You just need to choose what type of candy you want to display. When Bella comes everything is ruined! Kagome might not be human? Kagome got out of the car and stomped into the house in the worst of moods. Bella had totally ruined what little time she had with Jasper before school started. Kagome stomped upstairs to her room with her dad calling after her. She ignored him and continued to her room. When she got there she was shocked. Luggage was in her room and clothes were spread all over the place. To say she was angry was an understatement. Bella had put her stuff in her clean room or was clean. Kagome stomped back downstairs and was ready to attack Bella. She had had enough of her. She had gotten Esme mad at her. Kagome could still remember what happened. Bella walked in shortly afterward looking uncomfortable. Kagome pulled away from Jasper to meet Rosalie at the bottom of the stairs and hug. When they pulled apart Rosalie glared at the girl that came with her. When they hugged Kagome had told Rosalie about Bella. She had blonde hair, blue eyes; red lips, and a figure to die for. Part of the reason I hated Kagome was because she was prettier and my dad paid more attention to her. Kagome had a model type of beauty, but this Rosalie held an unearthly beauty she seemed to glow with perfection. I hated her because of it and because she was friends with Kagome. I saw her twitch and almost lose her composure. I smiled to myself. So I kept quiet after that glaring at her. Suddenly a short pixie like woman with black spiked hair practically flew down the stairs. She also was way prettier than me. I hated her instantly. I thought she would hug Kagome like the others, but instead she called her a "Boyfriend stealing Bitch. Unlike I thought she would Kagome just said "Hello to you to Alice. I saw her walk outside. I decided to follow I think we both wanted Kagome out of the way. I walked outside and she was sitting in what seemed to be a tree house. I climbed up and sat down. I could tell she instantly brightened at the thought. She nodded her head excitedly. I smirked and leaned in to tell her my plan. She was smirking obviously liking my plan. She already knew how many times they all had already graduated high school. Suddenly she was lifted off the couch and pulled into a huge bear hug. Emmett was like an older brother to her. He could always make her laugh and he always threatened to beat up anyone her had made her feel sad. Rosalie was the sister she never had. Kagome laughed grabbed his arm and pulled it behind his back it actually hurt. Kagome and Rosalie were still laughing at him so he decided to tackle them. Both girls jumped out of the way and barely missed being tackled. Bella walked in and saw what was going on and decided to take this time to act. She ran behind Kagome and knocked down a vase Alice said Esme cherished. Everyone turned and saw the vase behind Kagome crash into a million tiny pieces before Esme and Carlisle walked into the room. Which happened to be Kagome. Kagome looked down at the vase and realized why Esme was so mad. It was the last possession she had of her mothers. Kagome understood and walked out with Bella in tow smiling the whole time. She just knew she had something to do with this. She picked up a rather large chunk of the vase and said "Mom smell this. She must be trying to get something out of getting you mad at Kagome. Charlie turned to Bella "Bella? Kagome decided to explain "She purposely got me in trouble and messed my room up by scattering her clothes everywhere. When she got there Bella was indeed in her room. The door was shut and locked. Kagome banged on the door. Charlie ran up and said "Bella! Open the door this instant! She grabbed a bobby pin out of her hair and started to pick the lock. About ten seconds later they heard a click and the door was unlocked. Kagome smiled and said "Fromâ€¹" she trailed off realizing who she was talking to. Charlie gasped, but Kagome smirked she knew there was no way Bella would stay out there all night. Charlie was about to run down stairs to call back up, but Kagome convinced him somehow to wait that Bella would be back in no more than an hour. Charlie exploded "Young lady you are grounded! No laptop, no going out, other than school you will not leave this house, and you will clean the garage! As if reading her mind Charlie said "Clean this room! Put everything back where it belongs! This could take forever! Kagome will sleep in the guest bedroom until this room is back the way she had it. Tomorrow afternoon there will be a list of chores on the table for you to do. Kagome stood up smirking and left saying "Have fun. Esme got mad because that was all she had left other than memories of her mother!
