There are so many wonderful colors â€” of course you can always choose your own colors â€” and designs. Many of the patterns can also easily be altered so if you need something larger or smaller, just figure out the additional stitches. Also, be sure to check out these free crochet patterns for beginners. There are so many wonderful things in here that you can make â€” many of which will pair nicely with your new blanket. Crocheting is such a wonderful skill. Try out some of these amazing patterns and see for yourself just how easy they are to complete. Blackberry Salad Striped Afghan This gorgeous afghan can easily be crocheted in a number of sizes. You could use the pattern for a baby blanket or a king sized throw â€” whatever size you need. I love all the different colors and there are pattern sizes available for any size that you would need. Chunky Feather And Fan Blanket This blanket has a beautiful lace look to it that is much easier to create than you may think. You use weight yarn and a large hook for this one â€” 15 mm to be exact â€” so it works up really quickly. The finished product makes a gorgeous throw and you can learn the feather and fan stitches that are very popular. Clamshell Blanket This gorgeous clamshell blanket is a bit trickier than others but so worth the effort. You can use the pattern for larger blankets or baby blankets as well as cushions and just about anything else you want to create that has this lovely clamshell pattern. This is such a traditional looking blanket and it would be the perfect throw for those chilly winter nights. Classic Crochet Baby Blanket This lovely little blanket is perfect for anyone you know who is expecting. Why purchase store bought baby blankets when you can easily crochet one yourself? The scalloped edge is really gorgeous, too and you could easily adjust this for size if you wanted to make something a bit larger. Hexa Puff Quilt This hexa puff quilt is absolutely stunning. The colors along with the design make it perfect for giving or keeping for yourself as a nice throw. The pattern is for a baby sized quilt, which would also be perfect for a lapghan or you could adjust the size if you want to make it a bit larger. I love the pattern itself with those puffs of color. I think doing this in different colors per line would be gorgeous, especially if you know the gender of the baby so you can alternate colors for him or her or just use neutral colors. Swirl Blanket This swirl blanket is certainly unique and makes the perfect throw for the back of your tea sipping and reading chair. This one is really easy, too. Once you set up with the center, you just have to repeat the same step over and over until you reach the length that you want. Crochet Sampler Afghan I love sampler patterns. This afghan really resembles a quilt with its blocks of different colors and designs. I even love the blues and greens used in this one, although you could use pink and blue to make it a baby afghan or whatever colors you need. I love the bold colors used in this one but again, use whatever colors you need. Go Team Colors Blanket This pattern is for a baby blanket, but you could also use this team blanket for those cold nights at the stadium. Whether you enjoy football or baseball â€” both of which are played outside during colder weather â€” you will love having this little blanket along to help keep you warm on those windy nights. Blanket For All Seasons This adorable little baby blanket can be customized in different ways to make it perfect for whatever you need. The pattern can be adjusted to different yarn weights as well so it really is perfect for any season. This huge blanket can be used as a bedspread or just anywhere that you need it â€” like on the back of your couch to show off your amazing granny square skills. Hexagon Blanket This beautiful and colorful blanket uses a hexagon pattern that makes it absolutely gorgeous. You use a hexagon granny square to create it and you will end up making more than of those little squares to finish it off.

Chapter 2 : Free Knitting and Crochet Patterns | Lion Brand Yarn

Racetrack Rug (free crochet pattern - must make for my little boy when hes old enough to play with cars:). - The Crocheting Place Find this Pin and more on Favorite Knitting Patterns by Cindy O'Kane.

Crocheting and knitting are such wonderfully relaxing pastimes. Crochet is a very versatile project and can be so much fun. You only use one crochet hook, as opposed to two needles with knitting, and the finished product is always so gorgeous. Whether you crochet for yourself or to give as gifts, you are sure to find a pattern in this collection that is perfect for what you want. Imagine giving a hand crocheted baby blanket as a gift at your next baby shower or maybe making a new headband for your little girl. Be sure to also check out this gorgeous mermaid blanket crocheting pattern. I have a great pair of crocheted shorts that I bought for vacation this summer and let me tell you, they were not cheap. This is a great blanket for giving as a gift or keeping for yourself. It takes about 13 balls of yarn – this is a really large blanket! This one takes an H crochet hook and just very little yarn. Bulky weight yarn works wonderfully for this one and you could do so many different colors. Imagine having a great hat and scarf to match every outfit! Both the hat and scarf take little time even for beginners and are great for showing off your skills. You could even do this with different colors if you want to up your skillset just a bit and make the necklace more easily matchable to everything in your closet. This is a pattern for a great summer snack bag that looks like a popsicle. I love the red, white, and blue color scheme. I have so many of them all over the house. This one can be done in whatever color you want of course, but I really adore the off white look. Or, you could make one for your own little one. You could totally do this in pink or blue or choose a neutral color like yellow. You may even want to make a couple and create a little zoo basket. This Fourth of July potholder will be perfect this summer for your barbecues and family get-togethers. It measures about seven by seven inches when finished, and has a gorgeous star right in the center. These owls would make wonderful potholders or you could put them all together to form a blanket or any number of other wonderful creations. Kids love popsicles, you know those thin ones in plastic, but they really do get very cold. Use them on the dresser to hold rings or earrings and keep them in place. Four skeins of yarn make a 60 inch cowl, so you can alter the number of skeins you need based on how long or short you want the scarf. The overall workup is really easy though and you can probably finish this in just a few hours. If you really want to be creative, you can add a crocheted character to it, or just leave it plain. The cover protects babies from wind or sun – just like those that you buy in stores. But this one is homemade, and that is after all, the best way to do things. This one is for chain bracelets that are even easier to crochet than their longer counterparts. You could probably adjust the pattern to fit any number of cups or glasses. I love the buttons that hold it all together. These would make wonderful gifts for anyone you know who really enjoys their morning coffee or you could make a matching set for your own kitchen. It only takes two skeins of yarn to make the cocoon including the tail and ruffles at the top. I love the entire look of this and any new mother would really love it as a gift for her little girl. This one looks a bit more complicated but can still be completed easily in just a few hours. There are three sizes available; ranging from newborn to 24 months, so this one is great for mothers to be or new mothers. I love the vintage look of the hat, it has such a frontier bonnet appeal to it, and the booties are just too cute. The little buttons on the side really makes them stand out, and I love that you can do the cuffs in a contrasting color from the actual bootie. The pattern fits sizes six to twelve months, but if you know how, you could adjust it for smaller or larger sizes. This is such a great tank top and so easy to make. I really love the big crocheted flower on the side of this one. I also like the grey color, but you could do this in any color that you want – or several colors and have one to match every outfit. This is honestly the cutest thing I have ever seen. You can easily make this in just a couple of hours, and in so many beautiful colors. The red and white coloring is gorgeous and this is such an easy pattern. You have plenty of time to get this done before the holidays roll around again. Go ahead and make more than one – keep one for yourself and use the others as gifts. You could make an entire set of four in just a few hours. You could also do these as gifts – just give a set to anyone who you know would love them. I love how comfortable these shoes are, and I really love this crocheted version of my favorite shoes. You crochet a really stylish top to the shoes, which instantly transforms them into a dressier style. I love how easy these are to make. You can have an entire set of flip flops done in just a couple of hours. The mouth and nose are embroidered and eyes are buttons. This is such a cute little bear and any child is going to love him. These shorts are very in style right now and are so gorgeous. The pattern makes it look so easy to create them, and I really love that wide satin ribbon at the waist. You can create an entire family of baskets, which would be perfect for holding sewing and crocheting projects, yarn, and needles. I love these for storage options, as well. Plus, you can easily create this gorgeous bag in about three hours, and with just a few supplies. This is one of the easiest bags to crochet, and is really beautiful with the tassels hanging down. I really love the fringe on the ends, but you could probably leave that out if you wanted. Then put them all together and make yourself a nice little blanket. I love the black and white stripes. You can use other colors, of course, just choose two different colors so you can practice on those color changes. This really works up quickly and is a perfect valance for the kitchen or even bathroom – just wherever you want to display your handiwork and add a nice splash of color. It will stretch to fit when you wear it. The pattern looks really simple so you could probably finish this off in just a couple of hours. I love the white and pink combination for girls, but you could totally change up the colors for boys. It even has a pom pom tail! I love everything about this, especially the fact that it is so easy to make. The pattern itself is not at all difficult, and teaches you to integrate three different colors of thread into the same project. This is an easy project, and great for practice. If you have a snowy Saturday, this would be the perfect way to pass some time. Or, leave the heart off and just make the head warmer – you could have that finished in about an hour or so. They are just so versatile and stylish at the same time. This great poncho is really easy to make and can be done in so many different colors – you could have a poncho for virtually every outfit. These look great when paired with boots or you could just have it on hand in case you get chilly at outdoor sporting events. The one piece pattern makes it a cinch to crochet, and you can totally have it done in just a few hours. Use fabric scraps or upcycled blankets to create them. You use a larger crochet hook for these and they are absolutely gorgeous when finished. Fabric baskets are so great for storing all sorts of things and these are really simple to make. You can have a basket finished in about an hour or so. These pillows are very easy to make and you can make several to have them all over the house. Each pillow needs just two skeins of yarn and some pillow filling – or use upcycled fabric if you prefer. Do these in any number of colors for the couch and living room chairs, and you can even adjust the pattern to make them different sizes.

Different Tools The most striking difference between knitting and crochet is the tools you use for each craft. Knitting is performed by holding your stitches on a needle and working the yarn through them with the other needle, thus transferring the stitches from one needle to the other as you complete rows. Your work will stay on at least one needle until you bind off the stitches, thus preventing them from becoming unraveled. There are many different types, styles, and sizes of knitting needles: However, crocheting is done with the use of a crochet hook. Multiple stitches are almost never kept on the hook at the same time, with Tunisian crochet being an exception to this rule. Because each stitch is worked completely and closed off before moving to the next stitch, crochet projects are a bit more difficult to unravel Yay! Finally, while there is some variety among crochet hooks, particularly with length, quality, and material, the basic shape stays the same for most, if not all, applications. Different Fabric While both knitting and crochet employ yarn to create some sort of fabric, the texture of this fabric can vary widely between the two crafts. Knit material tends to be more lightweight, have a stretchier drape, and use less yarn than crochet fabric. Because of this, many people prefer the sleeker appearance of knitting to that of crochet. However, crochet fabric, though sturdy, tends to have a more intricate style than knitted fabric. This means that even the most basic stitches are texture heaven! Some makers debate on which technique takes more time to do, but from my experience that varies from person to person. For me, knitting is much quicker than crochet, just because I tend to spend more time knitting! Different Applications Finally, because of the major differences in the fabric created by knitting versus that of crochet, you tend to see the two crafts used in different applications. So many amazing designers, like our good friend Sewrella, have made beautiful, cleverly designed knitting and crochet patterns of ALL types. What a time to be a maker! To sum up, there are quite a few differences between knitting and crochet projects! Both are made with unique tools and create completely different fabrics that are sometimes used for strategically chosen types of projects.
