Father Habeebee tells the children a story of long ago, including something for each child -- something about a horse for Ali, a lamb for Rebecca, a goat for Adeeb and camels for Hababy. Alan Alda also goes into some detail about the storyboarding for "Goodbye, Farewell, and Amen. The book also includes a preface by Alan Alda. It focuses on three doctors at MASH. Of course it also features a depressed dentist Walt Waldowski who threatens to commit suicide, a company clerk Radar with ESP, and a pompous head nurse Hot Lips among others. It was written for a cast of eleven men and eleven women, featuring many of the characters from the book with some additions. This full length play is based on the original novel by Richard Hooker. Only this time in Merry Old England -- and the cast of characters includes an opera singer, an orphaned Duke, a castlekeeper, an oil baron, and the entire Bayou Perdu Council. K. Dona Antoinetta is a nearly fifty year old spinster lady who had fallen in her youth and frequently confessed her sin to an understanding priest. Dago Red and Walt Waldowski both run into Boris who decides to have an impromptu reunion of friends from the th including Hawkeye and Trapper. To Montreal they escort a motley party, determined to celebrate the most memorable wedding that ever joined a lovesick couple. Abetted by a royal prince, a drunken sheikh, a ravishing blonde diplomat, and a wacked-out cast of international misfits, the fun-loving medics unleash their own zany brand of chaos on the unsuspecting Arabs. By order of the government, Henry brings Hawkeye and Trapper along to keep Horsey and the others in line. They meet up with Hot Lips and Horsey and later meet a cast of characters including an Indian with his millionaire cowboy friend and a group driving in a lavender van. Inspired by such cronies as Hot Lips, Boris Korsky-Rimsakov, and the ebullient Dowager Duchess of Folkestone -- and with the memorable assistance from some boob-tube celebrities -- they indulge in merry mayhem and blackmail. At least one U. Senator and two TV personalities -- to say nothing of Vienna -- will never be the same. Hooker wrote this book from the first person point of view. The Swampmen are back in Spruce Harbor, Maine causing trouble as usual. Their antics include a plan to send a 40 year old lobsterman to medical school on a football scholarship and having a bear and an 80 year old physician tried for rape.
