Being a "Disney-only" travel agency enables us to keep up to date with all the latest Disney news, deals, discounts, and promotions. We're self-proclaimed Disney experts! Every MickeyTravels agent eats, breathes, sleeps and lives the MAGIC of Disney!

Normally the client pays nothing extra for the service provided by a travel agency. Travel agents make their living from a small commission paid by the travel supplier in this case, Disney for the resort hotel rooms, theme park passes and vacation packages they book. The agent is compensated by this commission for the time, effort and attention she provides to the client. Some agencies do charge for making changes or cancellations. Travel agencies always charge a fee for making air reservations, because the airlines no longer pay commission. Small World Vacations does not book plane tickets for that very reason: Read our advice and tips on booking your own airfare. What to Expect An agent who specializes in Disney travel should be able to provide you with accurate information, including pricing, for Disney resorts, theme park passes and packages. She will book your trip and seek out the best deals for you – even rebooking your trip when better rates come up, if possible. Once you book with a travel agent, he or she becomes your single point of contact for all changes in your travel plans. You cannot make changes or cancellations directly through Disney if you are working with a travel agent. For most people this feature is convenient, but if you prefer to control everything yourself, booking with a travel agent is not for you. Travel agents are generally geared toward long-term planning one month in advance or more. Avoid Problems with Payments One of the most important things you need to find out about a travel agency is how they handle payments. The agency should send your payments immediately and directly to Disney. If you give them a credit card number, the card payment should be processed by Disney. If you write a check, it should be made out to Disney, not to the agency. DO NOT use an agency that collects your money and holds that money in its own accounts! Agencies that hold your money may have cash flow problems. If you have booked a Disney cruise, full payment must be received by Disney by a certain date so that you can reserve excursions and make Palo reservations, but if the agency sits on your money, you may lose your chance to make those reservations. In any case, there is no reason why the agency should earn interest on your money! You have much better protection against losing your money if you pay with a credit card. Small World Vacations agents are required to have actually experienced the Disney destinations they sell. They are insured, bonded and have been in business for over 20 years. Small World Vacations uses a quotation system that helps them offer the best discounts available and also directs your request to the best agent for your needs. Submit a request for a price quote through their website. Based on your needs and your location, Sue partners you with a specific agent who will work with you right up through the time of your trip. Sue is located in the Northeastern US, but she has agents around the US and works with clients around the world. The agent will contact you by email with your quotation and provide you with a toll-free number that allows you to reach her directly and discuss the details of your vacation. From that point on, your contact is one-on-one with the agent and completely personalized. They are oriented toward saving you money and will constantly monitor your reservation to make sure you are getting the best available deal. They understand and use the various discount codes that may be available, and they know all the best tricks for maximizing your time and money when planning a Disney vacation. You will always receive helpful planning information and literature when you book with Small World Vacations. There is never any charge for their services. They often offer special gifts and incentives as well. Ready to plan your vacation with Small World Vacations? Where do you want to go? Small World Vacations has a minimum booking requirement of 2 nights for vacation packages; there is a 3-night minimum for room-only bookings with no tickets or dining plan at on-site Disneyland Resorts.
