Chapter 1 : Gathering Feedback from Students | Center for Teaching | Vanderbilt University

The Vineland Adaptive Behavior Scales, Second Edition, Teacher Rating Form (Vineland-II TRF) provides a comprehensive assessment of personal and social sufficiency for students aged 3 through 21 years in a school.

Teacher performance evaluations should be conducted on a periodic basis at least annually and should not reflect personal prejudice, bias, or favoritism on the part of the supervisor for the rating or review. It is important to be positive in all evaluation meetings. Also, remember the employee must know what is expected in job performance and production in order to meet the expectations. Teacher Evaluation Form Instructions Both the teacher and the supervisor should have a copy of the current job expectations. If you wish to have the teacher participate in self-evaluation, provide a copy for the employee to use as a worksheet. Self-evaluation is helpful in stimulating discussion of ways in which supervisor and teacher can work together to increase effectiveness. Use one of the following ratings to describe the performance of the individual in each of the categories. Performance consistently exceeds expectations for the job. Performance often exceeds expectations for the job. Performance consistently meets expectations for the job Unsatisfactory: Performance does not meet expectations for the job. The Evaluator must provide an explanation for that rating when scored Unsatisfactory in the comments section for that category. All ratings in each category should be averaged together and listed in the comments section for that category. Supervisor and teacher must discuss the evaluation, progress made in performance, and progress toward objectives and goals for the coming year. All ratings are reviewed and approved by the next-higher-level supervisor than the one who prepared the rating. Supervisors should make teachers aware of this opportunity. A copy of the signed teacher evaluation form shall be provided to the teacher within 30 days of the date of the evaluation or upon request. Examine all sources of evidence provided by the teacher and bear in mind the aspects of teaching for each of the four categories used in this form. Refer to the rubric language, checking the appropriate aspects of teaching, and indicating the sources of evidence used to determine the evaluation of the results in each category. Last, assign an overall evaluation of performance, sign the teacher evaluation form and gain the signature of the employee under review.

Planning and Preparation – Through their knowledge of content and pedagogy skills in planning and preparation, teachers make plans and set goals based on the content to be learned, their knowledge of students and their instructional context. Classroom Environment – Teachers establish and maintain a purposeful and equitable environment for learning, in which students feel safe, valued, and respected by instituting routines and by setting clear expectations for student behavior. Instructional Delivery – Through their knowledge of content and their pedagogy and skill in delivering instruction, teachers engage students in learning by using a variety of instructional strategies. Evaluation forms can be great sources of feedback as well as effective marketing tools.
