Chapter 1 : Books by Brook Noel (Author of I Wasn't Ready to Say Goodbye)

"Weekly Wonders" is the newest in Brook Noel's Rush Hour Cook series of specialty cookbooks designed for the time-constrained cook. In this book she has put together nineteen weeks worth of complete menus.

October 15, Okay. I have been with my husband for almost 6 years. And during that time, I think I have probably cooked around 40 meals not using a box or frozen prepared item. And I was in complete agony from the moment I attempted to pick a dish to cook, all the way through to washing the dishes. Then, last week my Weekly Wonders book showed up!!! First off, I thought I hated to cook and thought I would until the day I die. There were always too many expensive wierd ingredients to come up with, the instructions were often too legnthly or cumbersome, I had to spend a LOT of time flipping through pages to write out grocery lists and I would invariably leave something off, or not buy enough, etc. I have TONS of cookbooks, but would pick just a recipe or two to try, then be sick of the whole deal. This book is different. I wish there were more books on the market in this format. Because of my aversion to the flipping missing ingredient gathering in individual recipes, I have been sticking to the lists and cooking the entire weekly menus. Not all of it. But we have a pact to eat everything in the name of variety. There is a lot of fresh produce and meat involved in these recipes and so each meal has been an adventure. And for crying out loud, I actually have exactly what I need to cook these recipes with, no more and no less! No emergency trips to the grocery store right in the middle of rush hour for one stinking missing item! No more going into shock and then a coma with the question "What are we having for dinner? No more chopping for hours and eating at 10 pm! No more boxed frozen crap! No more emergency runs to a burger joint! I am so excited to be finally cooking food on a daily basis. I feel like I have reached a semblance of "normal". And my husband is so pleased! Thank GOD for this book! And you too, NOEL. Please make a volume 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6!!!! This is likely to be a Christmas present for all the girls in my family.

Paperback "I found that I could drastically reduce time spent in the kitchen by unearthing recipes that could be prepared in a single pot. Well, at least the recipes that use a crockpot basically cook themselves. My favorite recipe in this tiny book is on pg. Once you assemble all the ingredients and close the lid, you cook it for 5 hours on high and you are done. The recipe says hours, but magically this dish was done two hours early. The beef, carrots and potatoes were all covered with a delicious gravy and the entire dish was ready to serve. It did take 20 minutes to assemble the dish, but think of all the time you have while you are not standing watching something cook. Once you discover crockpot cooking, there is no looking back. You will love it. Especially in the winter. This book contains recipes for appetizers, main meals, delectable desserts and etcetera. All the recipes are sized for 6 servings unless otherwise noted. At the end of the book, you will find sections that include pre-planned menus and grocery lists. Some of the recipes you might want to try include: Brook Noel has a few rules for rush hour recipes. All the ingredients must be pronounced through the phonetic use of the English Language 2. Each ingredient can be located in the market without engaging in a full scale scavenger hunt. No list of ingredients shall be longer than the instructions. Each recipe has to be durable enough to survive me, the Queen-of-Incapable-Cooking, and elicit a compliment. Keep this one handy for the Pot Roast recipe, it is a real winner. You might also find some of her other books rather entertaining:
