Chapter 2 : Library of Virginia Visitors Guide

*Whooo, Whooo, Here Com the Trains (Rourke Discovery Library (Software)) [Molly Carroll, Jeanne Sturm] on theinnatdunvilla.com FREE shipping on qualifying offers. This Will Be The New Favorite Train Book For Many Little Boys.*

One child is chosen to be the engine of a train. This child chugs around the room and then backs up into another child. The new child connects onto the train by grabbing on to the waist of the engine. Then these two children chug around the room and back into another child. The game continues until all of the children have hooked onto the train. Paint or cover with paper five shoe box bottoms. Make each box or train car a different color. Now hook the boxes together with string or large paper clips to create a color train. Set out a pile of small toys with at least three toys per color of train car. Let your children take turns placing the colored toys into the corresponding train car. For smaller groups, just use two or three different colors of paper. Pass out the tickets to your children. Now, chug around the room pretending to be a train. Only children with red tickets can come up and hand you a red ticket, then hook onto your back for a ride around the room. Choose one child to be a caboose. Have the rest of the children create one or more trains by hooking together. In this game the caboose tries to catch onto the back of one of the trains. Trains chug around and try to avoid being caught by the caboose. When the caboose finally does catch onto the back of a train, the engine of that train becomes the next caboose. Continue playing while interest lasts. Set a small table over the track and drape it with a blanket on two sides to create a train tunnel. Encourage your children to pretend to be trains as they crawl along the tracks and go through the train tunnel. Place train items in your dress-up area to encourage train play. Provide engineer hats, train whistles, tickets and a hole punch. If they have never been on a train, have them tell where they would go if they could travel on a train. Show them pictures of freight trains in books. Teach your children the names of the different types of cars on a freight train. Hopper Car " an open top car that carries cargo that is poured into the top of the car, such as; coal, wheat, and sand. Flat Car " a flat floor on wheels that carries large loads that are usually tied on, like; lumber, machinery. Also carries large containers stacked on top. Box Car " is a four sided rectangular car with a large side door. It carries boxes of cargo. Tank Car " is a metal tube shaped car. It carries liquid, such as; milk, oil or gasoline. Caboose " is the last car on a train. It is a home and an office for the train workers. Just Me " Marie H. Perhaps your children could make small box houses or stores to set out with the model train. Turn the pieces sideways and cover them with frosting. Place a marshmallow on the front section to represent a smoke stack. Cut additional marshmallows in half to create wheels. Attach the wheels to the sides of the train cars with toothpicks. Cut empty egg cartons in-half lengthwise. Give one half section to each child for a train.
