Disaster tourism Disaster tourism is the act of traveling to a disaster area as a matter of curiosity. If not done because of pure curiosity, it can be cataloged as disaster learning. Ecotourism Ecotourism is now defined as "responsible travel to natural areas that conserves the environment, sustains the well-being of the local people, and involves interpretation and education". Some extreme forms of this include attempting to make first contact with tribes that are protected from outside visitors. Extreme tourism Extreme tourism involves travel to dangerous extreme locations or participation in dangerous events or activities. This form of tourism can overlap with extreme sport. Jungle tourism Jungle tourism is a rising subcategory of adventure travel defined by active multifaceted physical means of travel in the jungle regions of the earth. Although similar in many respects to adventure travel, jungle tourism pertains specifically to the context of region, culture and activity. According to the Glossary of Tourism Terms, jungle tours have become a major component of green tourism in tropical destinations and are a relatively recent phenomenon of Western international tourism. Today overlanding is a form of extended adventure holiday, embarking on a long journey, often in a group. Overland companies provide a converted truck or a bus plus a tour leader, and the group travels together overland for a period of weeks or months. Since the s overlanding has been a popular means of travel between destinations across Africa , Europe , Asia particularly India , the Americas and Australia. The "Hippie trail" of the 60s and 70s saw thousands of young westerners travelling through the Middle East to India and Nepal. Many of the older traditional routes are still active, along with newer routes like Iceland to South Africa overland and Central Asian post soviet states. Urban exploration Urban exploration often shortened as urbex or UE is the examination of the normally unseen or off-limits parts of urban areas or industrial facilities. Urban exploration is also commonly referred to as infiltration, although some people consider infiltration to be more closely associated with the exploration of active or inhabited sites. It may also be referred to as "draining" when exploring drains "urban spelunking", "urban caving", or "building hacking". The nature of this activity presents various risks, including physical danger and the possibility of arrest, heavy fines, and incarceration. Many, but not all, of the activities associated with urban exploration could be considered trespassing or other violations of local or regional laws. Spiritual tourism The Spiritual tourism refers to activities done for spiritual pursuits like pilgrimage, taking part in Yoga and meditation etc. Spiritual quest has become one of the major goal among many travelers. The programs like yoga treks, pilgrimages, meditation tours are getting more popular day by day.
