Murdo MacLeod for the Guardian We are all, in one way or another, just moments from death. Catastrophe lurks wherever we care to look. Most of us tend not to dwell on our mortality since that way madness lies, but many have stood on the precipice, often several times over, and stared it squarely in the face. These include a haemorrhage during childbirth, miscarriage, childhood encephalitis, amoebic dysentery and an ill-advised leap off a harbour wall into the sea as a teen. Written in self-contained essays, the events recalled here are blips, coincidences, flashes of folly or plain bad luck. Some are startling but later shrugged off; others are lingering and life-changing. But circumstances change and this, her eighth book, is her first autobiographical work. The idea came to her while caring for her eight-year-old daughter who has a severe immune disorder that has, as detailed here, repeatedly required life-saving treatment. On average her child suffers between 12 and 15 allergic reactions a year. If she eats something with a trace of nuts, or sits where someone might have consumed them, or near someone who might have eaten them, she might go into anaphylactic shock. The nurses in our local A and E department greet [my daughter] by name. Her consultant allergist has told me several times that we should never take her outside the range of a good hospital. She is showing her that life is still possible. Each chapter is named according to a part of the body âœ” circulatory system, lungs, cranium, intestines and so on âœ” underlining whichever area is, at that time, most in danger. There are some seriously hair-raising moments: These include a close call with a passing lorry, an encounter with a circus knife-thrower and a scrabble for the lock as two strangers approach her car. But if imminent loss of life feels distant in these passages, the tension does not. Between shifts she decides to walk up to a nearby tarn and passes a man on the way up. On the way back down he appears again and she realises that he has been waiting for her. There is a heart-stopping moment when, after following her down the hill and talking insistently about birds, he lifts up his binoculars and places the strap around her neck. Later she contacts the police but the incident is all but laughed off. But the following week she is visited by detectives investigating the rape and murder of a year-old backpacker whose body was discovered near the path where she had been walking. She had been strangled using the strap from a pair of binoculars. This is far from a conventional memoir. Thus, we meet her as a daughter, a student, an office worker, a mother, a wife and a traveller. We are privy to various moods and mindsets: These snapshots, shared in extreme closeup, reveal a thoughtful and determined writer who, despite frequent trauma, remains resilient and unbowed. While these experiences are unique to the author, there is a common thread in their telling. Each of these essays is underscored with the knowledge that such incidents can materialise in all our lives without warning.

When Ali was assassinated by Ibn Muljam a Kharijite in , his eldest son, Hasan , succeeded him but soon signed a peace treaty with Muawiyah to avoid further bloodshed. However, he told them he was still bound by the peace treaty between Hasan and Muawiyah I as long as Muawiyah was alive. He insisted on his legitimacy based on his own special position as a direct descendant of Muhammad and his legitimate legatees. As a consequence, [30] he left Medina, his home town, to take refuge in Mecca in 60 AH. Abd Allah ibn al-Zubayr challenged them and went to Mecca. Ottoman miniature Yazid instructed his Governor Walid in Medina to force Husayn ibn Ali as well as the other prominent figures to pledge allegiance to Yazid. Husayn refused it and said that "Anyone akin to me will never accept anyone akin to Yazid as a ruler. It is mainly during his stay in Mecca that he received many letters from Kufa assuring him their support and asking him to come over there and guide them. After this initial observation, Muslim ibn Aqeel wrote to Husayn ibn Ali that the situation in Kufa was favorable. However, after the arrival of the new Governor of Kufa, Ubayd Allah ibn Ziyad , the situation changed. This shifted the loyalties of the people of Kufa, in favor of Yazid and against Husayn ibn Ali. When Husayn ibn Ali was making up his mind to leave for Kufa, Abd Allah ibn Abbas and Abd Allah ibn al-Zubayr held a meeting with him and advised him not to move to Iraq, or, if he was determined to move, not to take women and children with him in this dangerous journey. Husayn ibn Ali, however, had resolved to go ahead with his plan. He gave a speech to people the day before his departure and said: Death is a certainty for mankind, just like the trace of necklace on the neck of young girls. And I am enamored of my ancestors like eagerness of Jacob to Joseph Everyone, who is going to devote his blood for our sake and is prepared to meet Allah , must depart with us The messenger was captured in the vicinity of Kufa but managed to tear the letter to pieces to hide names of its recipients. Husayn asked the army, "With us or against us? The water blockade continued up to the end of the battle on Muharram 10th October 10, AD. Husayn and his followers held a vigil and prayed all night. He appointed Zuhayr ibn Qayn to command the right flank of his army, Habib ibn Muzahir to command the left flank and his half-brother Al-Abbas ibn Ali as the standard bearer. His speech affected Hurr , the commander of the Tamim and Hamdan tribes, who had stopped Husayn from his journey. A couple of dozen men under the command of Zuhayr ibn Qayn repulsed the initial infantry attack and destroyed the left flank of the Syrian army which in disarray collided with the middle of the army. The Syrian army retreated and broke the pre-war verbal agreement of not using arrows and lances. Are you really instigating people to fight me?! Are we really the ones who abandoned their creed while you yourself uphold it?! As soon as our souls part from our bodies, you will find out who is most worthy of entering the fire! Men like Burayr ibn Khudhayr, [65] Muslim ibn Awsaja [61] [66] and Habib ibn Muzahir [67] [68] were slain in the fighting. The men of Banu Hashim , the clan of Muhammad and Ali, went out one by one. Ali al-Akbar ibn Husayn , the middle son of Husayn ibn Ali, was the first one of the Hashemite who received permission from his father. There were seventy-two Hashemites dead in all including Husayn ibn Ali. He immediately started filling the water skin. He put the water skin on his right shoulder and started riding back toward their tents. He was ambushed from behind a bush and his right arm was cut off. Al-Abbas ibn Ali put the water skin on his left shoulder and continued on his way but his left arm was also cut off. Al-Abbas ibn Ali now held the water skin with his teeth. Then he called Husayn "brother" for the first time in his life. He killed everybody that fought him in single battles. By the afternoon of the tenth day, Husayn was left alone surrounded by the enemy. At this time he was hit on his forehead with a stone. He was cleaning blood from his face while he was hit on the heart with an arrow and he said: You know that they are killing a man that there is son of daughter of a prophet on the earth except him. At this time Abdullah ibn Hasan, an underage boy, escaped from the tents and ran to Husayn. When a soldier intended to slay Husayn, Abdullah ibn Hasan defended his uncle with his arm, which was cut off. Husayn hugged Abd-Allah, but the boy was already hit by an arrow. According to Shia tradition, a voice came from the skies stating: He then sat against a tree. Khowali ibn Yazid al-Asbahiy preceded the man but became afraid and did not do it. Then Shimr bin Thiljoshan dismounted from his horse to do the job. Husayn ibn Ali asked for the permission to do Asr prayers. Shimr gave the permission to say the prayers and Husayn ibn Ali started prayer and when he went into Sajda, Shimr ibn Dhiljawshan betrayed and said: Sermon of Zaynab bint Ali in the court of Yazid According to an account by Rasheed Turabi , on the first day of Safar , [86] they arrived in Damascus and the captured family and heads of the dead were taken to Yazid. I will tell you [who I am]. Zaynab bint Ali then proceeded to give a sermon which according to Turabi is among the three most memorable sermons by the family of the Prophet [87] According to the narration of Al-Shaykh Al-Mufid , a man with red skin asked Yazid one of the captured woman as bondwoman. He appointed a public speaker to bash Ali and Husayn ibn Ali. The public speaker sat on the pulpit and began his lecture by praising Allah and insulting Ali and his son, Husayn. He devoted a long time to praising Yazid and his father Muawiyah. Later Ali ibn Husayn returned to Karbala to identify the grave sites. Hurr was buried by his tribe a distance away from the battlefield. During this year, some prisoners died of grief, most notably Sukayna bint Husayn. The people of Mecca also joined Abdullah to take on Yazid. Eventually Abdullah consolidated his power by sending a governor to Kufa. Soon Abdullah established his power in Iraq, southern Arabia , the greater part of Syria and parts of Egypt. But his sudden death ended the campaign. This, coupled with the Kharijite rebellions in Iraq, reduced his domain to only the Hejaz. The defeat of Abdullah ibn al-Zubayr re-established Umayyad control over the Empire. Tawwabins uprising After the killing of Husayn ibn Ali in Karbala , Shia were regretful and blamed themselves for not doing anything to help their Imam. Due these emotions a first uprising was begun by a group of Shia of Kufa that came to be known as Tawwabins. They also decided to keep their uprising a secret. This conspiracy remained hidden until 65 AH. It is said that of the 16, Shia who had promised to show up, only 4, arrived. Finally, 1, others left the army. The remainder spent three days in Nukhayla then went to Karbala to pilgrimage to the tomb of Husayn. Their leaders were killed in this battle and they were defeated. The uprising had also real effect on other Shia movements, such as the Mukhtar uprising, which finally led to the decline of the Umayyad. Those Shia movements lacked military "tactics and techniques" as they believed that their "sacred" goal sufficed. The uprising which lasted from to , was against Ibn Zubayr in the first instance. Mukhtar contacted the remaining members of Tawwabins from prison and promised to help them very soon. They replied that they could break into prison and release Mukhtar, but Mukhtar rejected the offer. After Mukhtar was released, he gathered Shia leaders such as Ibrahim ibn Malik al-Ashtar , who was an influential figure and thus very effective in recruiting men. Forces allied with Mukhtar entered Kufah. His reliance on clients and Persians, as they were "more obedient" and "more faithful and swift in performance" according to Mukhtar, and raising the social status of Mawalis to that of Arabs, made the Ashraf of Kufah revolt against Mukhtar. Mukhtar was finally killed on 14th Ramadan, after he had left the palace. Battle of Karbala played a central role in shaping the identity of Shia and turned the already distinguished sect into a sect with "its own rituals and collective memory. Buyid rulers promoted the public rituals of Muharram, the earliest documented account of Muharram procession, along with a celebration of Ghadir Khumm "to promote their religious legitimacy and to strength of Shia identity in and around Baghdad. Ashura uprising was not merely a historical issue at the time and was "the axis of mobilization" against Pahlavi regime. For example, Laura Veccia Vaglieri.

Chapter 5 : Who Am I? | OSHO | Meditation - Mindfulness and the Science of the Inner Parapar By Humayun Ahmed is a famous Bengali Book of Bangladesh. This novel book is one of the best of Himu series. This novel book is one of the best of Himu series. The ending part was so romantic.

Nomenclature[edit] The Gita in the title of the text "Bhagavad Gita" means "song". Religious leaders and scholars interpret the word "Bhagavad" in a number of ways. Accordingly, the title has been interpreted as "the Song of God" by the theistic schools, [16] "the Song of the Lord", [17] "the Divine Song", [18] [19] and "the Celestial Song" by others. According to Kashi Nath Upadhyaya, a Gita scholar, it is possible that a number of different individuals with the same name compiled different texts. This is evidenced by the discontinuous intermixing of philosophical verses with theistic or passionately theistic verses, according to Basham. Scholars accept dates from the fifth century to the second century BCE as the probable range, the later likely. The Hinduism scholar Jeaneane Fowler, in her commentary on the Gita, considers second century BCE to be the probable date of composition. Kashi Nath Upadhyaya, in contrast, dates it a bit earlier. He states that the Gita was always a part of the Mahabharata, and dating the latter suffices in dating the Gita. This would date the text as transmitted by the oral tradition to the later centuries of the 1st-millennium BCE, and the first written version probably to the 2nd- or 3rd-century CE. The dating of the Gita is thus dependent on the uncertain dating of the Mahabharata. The actual dates of composition of the Gita remain unresolved. These are the three starting points for the Vedanta school of Hindu philosophy. Smarta Tradition The Bhagavad Gita is the sealing achievement of Hindu Synthesis, incorporating its various religious traditions. It openly synthesizes and inclusively accepts multiple ways of life, harmonizing spiritual pursuits through action karma , knowledge jnana , devotion bhakti. The Indologist Robert Minor, and others, [web 1] in contrast, state the Gita is "more clearly defined as a synthesis of Vedanta, Yoga and Samkhya" philosophies of Hinduism. Thus Gita discusses and synthesizes the three dominant trends in Hinduism: According to Deutsch and Dalvi, the Bhagavad Gita attempts "to forge a harmony" between these three paths. The Gita disapproves of these, stating that not only is it against the tradition but against Krishna himself, because "Krishna dwells within all beings, in torturing the body the ascetic would be torturing him", states Flood. Even a monk should strive for the "inner renunciation", rather than external pretensions. According to Upadhyaya, the Gita states that none of these paths to spiritual realization are "intrinsically superior or inferior", rather they "converge in one and lead to the same goal". Therein, in the third section, the Gita forms chapters 23â€”40, that is 6. An authentic manuscript of the Gita with verses has not been found. Each shloka line has two quarter verses with exactly eight syllables. Each of these quarters is further arranged into "two metrical feet of four syllables each", state Flood and Martin. The Pandava prince Arjuna asks his charioteer Krishna to drive to the center of the battlefield so that he can get a good look at both the armies and all those "so eager for war". He does not want to fight to kill them and is thus filled with doubt and despair on the battlefield. Because of differences in recensions , the verses of the Gita may be numbered in the full text of the Mahabharata as chapters 6. However, variant readings are relatively few in contrast to the numerous versions of the Mahabharata it is found embedded in, and the meaning is the same. Some Sanskrit editions that separate the Gita from the epic as an independent text, as well as translators, however, add chapter titles such as each chapter being a particular form of yoga. Two massive armies representing different loyalties and ideologies face a catastrophic war. With Arjuna is Krishna, not as a participant in the war, but only as his charioteer and counsel. Arjuna requests Krishna to move the chariot between the two armies so he can see those "eager for this war". He sees family and friends on the enemy side. Arjuna is distressed and in sorrow. He wonders if it is noble to renounce and leave before the violence starts, or should he fight, and why. Bengali script ; Bottom: The warrior Arjuna whose past had focussed on learning the skills of his profession now faces a war he has doubts about. Filled with introspection and questions about the meaning and purpose of life, he asks Krishna about the nature of life, soul, death, afterlife and whether there is a deeper meaning and reality. The chapter summarizes the Hindu idea of rebirth, samsara, eternal soul in each person Self , universal soul present in everyone, various types of yoga, divinity within, the nature of Self-knowledge and other concepts. This chapter is an overview for the remaining sixteen chapters of the Bhagavad Gita. Krishna replies that there is no way to avoid action karma , since abstention from work is also an action. Every man or woman is bound by activity. Those who act selfishly create the karmic cause and are thereby bound to the effect which may be good or bad. Whatever the result, it does not affect them. Their happiness comes from within, and the external world does not bother them. Arjuna questions Krishna as how could he when those sages lived so long ago, and Krishna was born more recently. Krishna reminds him that everyone is in the cycle of rebirths, and while Arjuna does not remember his previous births, he does. Whenever dharma declines and the purpose of life is forgotten by men, says Krishna, he returns to re-establish dharma. The simultaneous outer action with inner renunciation, states Krishna, is the secret to the life of freedom. Action leads to knowledge, while selfless action leads to spiritual awareness, state the last verses of this chapter. Arjuna asks Krishna which path is better? The different paths, says Krishna, aim for and if properly pursued lead to Self-knowledge. This knowledge leads to the universal, transcendent Godhead, the divine essence in all beings, to Brahman - the Krishna himself. The final verses of the chapter state that the self-aware who have reached self-realization live without fear, anger, or desire. They are free within, always. For example, states Arthur Basham, verses 5.

Chapter 6 : Bhagavad Gita - Wikipedia

Who I am. Abu Md Jehangir is representative of the aristocrats of the old part of the city of Dhaka, Bangladesh. He has the greatest and most spread out family tree with relatives in Yemen, Kashmir, West Bengal, England.

Volume 6, Book 60, Number 1: Go to Moses, the slave to whom Allah spoke directly and gave him the Torah. When I see my Lord, I will fall down in Prostration and He will let me remain in that state as long as He wishes and then I will be addressed. Ask, and your request will be granted; say, and your saying will be listened to; intercede, and your intercession will be accepted. He will fix a limit for me to intercede for whom I will admit into Paradise. Then I will come back again to Allah, and when I see my Lord, the same thing will happen to me. So he came to the Prophet and said, "I will ask you about three things which nobody knows unless he be a prophet. Firstly, what is the first portent of the Hour? What is the first meal of the people of Paradise? And what makes a baby look like its father or mother? The Prophet said, "Just now Gabriel has informed me about that. And as for the first meal of the people of Paradise, it will be the caudite i. This is what I was afraid of! As for his telling a lie against Me, it is that he claims that I cannot recreate him as I created him before; and as for his abusing Me, it is his statement that I have offspring. I am far from taking a wife or offspring. Would that you took the station of Abraham as a place of prayer. Good and bad persons visit you! Would that you ordered the Mothers of the believers to cover themselves with veils. So Allah Revealed 2. A man from among those who had prayed with him, went out and passed by some people offering prayer in another mosque, and they were in the state of bowing. They had been killed and we did not know what to say about them i. Muslims will testify that he conveyed the Message. And the Apostle Muhammad will be a witness over yourselves, and that is what is meant by the Statement of Allah "Thus We have made of you a just and the best nation that you may be witnesses over mankind and the Apostle Muhammad will be a witness over yourselves. Volume 6, Book 60, Number Narrated by Anas None remains of those who prayed facing both Qiblas that is, Jerusalem and Mecca except myself. Narrated by Al-Bara We prayed along with the Prophet facing Jerusalem for sixteen or seventeen months. Then Allah ordered him to turn his face towards the Qibla in Mecca: Formerly the people were facing Sham Jerusalem Allah said: Their faces were then towards Sham Jerusalem , so they turned towards the Qibla i. In my opinion it is not sinful for one not to ambulate Tawaf between them. So it is not harmful of those who perform the Hajj of the House of Allah or perform the Umra, to ambulate Tawaf between them. Anas replied, "We used to consider i. Then Allah revealed" "Verily, Safa and Marwa i. So it is not harmful of those who perform the Hajj of the House of Allah or perform the Umra to ambulate Tawaf between them. The Prophet said "Whoever dies while still invoking anything other than Allah as a rival to Allah, will enter Hell Fire. Narrated by Ibn Abbas The law of Qisas i. So Allah said to this Nation i. The law of Al-Qisas i. The free for the free, the slave for the slave, and the female for the female. But if the relatives or one of them of the killed person forgive their brother i. This is an alleviation and a Mercy from your Lord, in comparison to what was prescribed for the nations before you. So after this, whoever transgresses the limits i. Will the incisor tooth of Ar-Rubai be broken? No, by Him Who sent you with the Truth, her incisor tooth will not be broken. The prescribed law of Allah is equality in punishment i. But when the order of compulsory fasting in the month of Ramadan was revealed, the Prophet said, "It is up to one to fast on it i. But when he came to Medina, he fasted on that day and ordered the Muslims to fast on it. Narrated by Salama When the Divine Revelation: Narrated by Al-Bara When the order of compulsory fasting of Ramadan was revealed, the people did not have sexual relations with their wives for the whole month of Ramadan, but some men cheated themselves by violating that restriction. I put a white thread and a black thread underneath my pillow. What is the meaning of the white thread distinct from the black thread? Are these two threads? Narrated by Sahl bin Sad The Verse: Narrated by Al-Bara In the Pre-Islamic Period when the people assumed Ihram, they would enter their houses from the back. So enter houses through their doors. Islam is founded on five principles, i. A man would be put to trial because of his religion; he would either be killed or tortured. But when the Muslims increased, there was no more afflictions or oppressions. Kufa Mosque, and asked him about the meaning of: Fidyah of either fasting or - - - 2. Can you afford to slaughter a sheep as a ransom for shaving your head? But the man who regarded it illegal just expressed what his own mind suggested. Muslims considered it a sin to trade there during the Hajj time i. Al-Muzdalifa where they ask Allah to help them to be righteous and dutiful to Him, and there they remember Allah greatly or say Takbir i. Allah is Greater and Tahlil i. None has the right to be worshipped but Allah repeatedly before dawn breaks. Then, after offering the morning Fajr prayer you should pass on to Mina for the people used to do so and Allah said: Allah is Oft-Forgiving, Most Merciful. Give us in this world that, which is good and in the Hereafter that, which is good and save us from the torment of the Fire. The Prophet said, "Or do you think that you shall enter Paradise without such trials as came to those who passed away before you? There came to them Our Help Then he went on reciting: By Allah, Allah never promised His Apostle anything but he knew that it would certainly happen before he died. But trials were continuously presented before the Apostles till they were afraid that their followers would accuse them of telling lies. So I used to recite: Nafi added regarding the Verse: Narrated by Jabir Jews used to say: So why should you write it? I will not shift anything of it from its place. Narrated by Mujahi regarding the Verse: They - their wives shall wait as regards their marriage for four months and ten days. So Allah entitled the widow to be bequeathed extra maintenance for seven months and twenty nights, and that is the completion of one year. And it was no longer necessary to provide her with a residence. The shorter Sura of women i. Surat-at-Talaq was revealed after the longer Sura i. May Allah fill their graves, their houses or their bodies with fire. Narrated by Zaid bin Arqam We used to speak while in prayer. One of us used to speak to his brother while in prayer about his need, till the Verse was revealed: Then the Imam, having offered two Rakat, finishes his prayer. Thus each one of the two groups will have offered two Rakat. But if the fear is too great, they can pray standing on their feet or riding on their mounts, facing the Qibla or not. Show me how You give life to the dead. I have something in my mind to say about it. Say, and do not under estimate yourself. Narrated by Abu Huraira The Prophet said, "The poor person is not the one for whom a date or two or a morsel or two of food is sufficient but the poor person is he who does not beg or ask the people for something or show his poverty at all. In it are Verses that are entirely clear, they are the foundation of the Book, others not entirely clear. So as for those in whose hearts there is a deviation from the Truth. And those who are firmly grounded in knowledge say: And none receive admonition except men of understanding.

Though the lady solicited, yet Himu can come away disregarding her. Himu have to go to Yakub Ali. He called in him. The man is aristocratic rich. He had to drill more to visit him. At last, He could meet him. He thought that he was keeping his foot in the cabin of a hospital. Yakub Ali has called for Himu. Himu can do that work well. As Himu related book the reader by own Power, exactly in that way. He also lugs this story in his way. He has also taken this story in his assimilation. Himu is innocently Himu. There is such kind of element in his book that after finishing reading the Book, the readers want to be a person like Himu. The spiritual power of Himu is described in this story. In the last page of Parapar, Himu asked Rupa why he was crying. Rupa answered that she does not know the reason for her crying. The problem of moonlight is only to make the illusion. This is the reality! Every Woman in this world is Rupa, and every man in this world is Himu.
